7:00PM

What defines our identity, our family of origin or the family that raises us? How do we come to terms with the sins and mistakes of our parents? Little White Lie tells Lacey Schwartz's story of growing up in a typical upper middle class household in Woodstock, New York with loving parents and a strong sense of identity. Despite the questions from those around her about how a white girl could have such dark skin, she believed her family's explanation that her looks were inherited from her dark-skinned Sicilian grandfather. At the age of 18, and the abrupt split of her parents, Lacey finally decides to put nagging doubts to rest, as she confronts her mother and learns the startling truth about her genesis. Turning the camera on herself, Lacey documents her cathartic quest to understand the hidden pieces of her life; daring to reconcile her mysterious childhood and biological roots.

Directed By Lacey Schwartz; Documentary, 2014, 65 Minutes, USA; English
